James B. McCreary is the Greatest Specimen Extant of Hair, Oil and Hypocrisy.--John S. Rhea.

The Democrats Kill the Sheep to Win Your Appetite and Use Schedule "K" to Pull the Wool Over your Eyes--Judge O'Rear.

INSINCERITY WAS PLEA

Of Four Speakers Here
Yesterday.

Was Substance of Speeches of Johnson, McCreary, Rhea
and Stanley.

ABUSED O'REAR'S RELIGION

The Democratic speaking here yesterday was composed of from 2,000 to 2,500 people. This is a liberal estimate, and many Democrats, when asked said that they thought this a fair estimate. While many said that there were nothing like that many people here.

The speaking began with Ben Johnson, Congressman from this congressional district. A nice little trick was pulled off at this point by the committee, when they made arrangements with Judge J. P. Miller, formerly in the banking business at Cincinnati, to introduce Mr. Johnson. There is much a sentiment in Ohio county against Johnson on account of his young belief in the Catholic religion. Judge Miller is known to be an ardent Baptist, and it was thought that by this arrangement, votes would be made.

Johnson's speech was bitter in its denunciation of Judge O'Rear. He claimed that it was with Judge O'Rear's knowledge and consent that J. W. McCulloch was made the chairman of the finance committee of this district. His entire argument was just the same as he has been crying at every speech he has made, and that was that he claimed that Judge O'Rear was insane. This appeared to be the whole gist of his argument from beginning to end.

Johnson further stated that Judge O'Rear is a moderate drinker and that he keeps it in his home, all of which is a lie. Johnson pretended that he had that statement out of a book that he had in his hand, that was issued by the Republican campaign committee, but he merely picked the book up, and then made that statement. He did not dare to read or tell on what page that statement could be found, for he well knew that it was not there and that statement was utterly untrue. He would have his argument up with the same old story, that Judge O'Rear had been convicted of being insane.

Mr. Johnson was followed by James B. McCreary, the Democratic nominee for Governor, and was introduced by Hon. H. P. Taylor. Old Mac is no speaker but he attempted, like the first prize speaker, to discredit the life and works of Judge O'Rear. His entire outburst was filled with vilifications of the Republican nominee and the present Republican administration. In fact everything that a Republican ever did from the history of time caught hold when Old Mac opened up with the grand old young-thing that he has been feeding the people on during the forty-five years that he has been sucking the public fat. By this time the noon hour had arrived and then began the scramble for the "carry the news to Harrah" barbecue.

JOHN RHEA SPEAKS.
The first speech after dinner was that made by John S. Rhea, the man who once said: "McCreary is the greatest specimen extant of hair, oil and hypocrisy." At that time he had no use for Old Mac, but now at this time John has a brother on the State ticket and that makes a whole lot of difference. Mr. Rhea was introduced in a nice little speech by Hon. J. P. Sanderson. After lambasting the Republican party in many ways he made the statement that three-fourths of the members of that party were unable to read. At this point he got in the same car with Johnson and Old Mac and yelled and barked about the insanity of Judge O'Rear. Rhea stated that when Gov. Willson went into office that Beckham had the State of Kentucky out of debt, and a million dollars in the treasury. But here he stopped, he dared not tell that there were also outstanding unpaid warrants, claims for materials furnished and for services performed and owing specific appropriations amounting to $1,333,284. And instead of leaving the Republicans a million dollar surplus, as Rhea claimed they really left a deficit on January 6, 1908 of $159,228.28.

The present administration has paid $3,785,771.80 more to the schools of the State than the last Beckham administration. If they had only paid what Beckham did, there would be a surplus in the State Treasury of more than $200,000.00.

Rhea jumped on the matter that Old Mac started a few days ago when he said that O'Rear was in the Galt House at the time of the Taylor-Gosbel contest, and made a speech advocating violence. Rhea alleged that he had it from reliable sources, but right here stopped and would not tell his hearers any more about it.

STANLEY SPEAKS.

Judge W. H. Barnes next introduced Congressman A. O. Stanley, and while Stanley had but a delivery of any of his bunch, yet there was nothing, absolutely nothing, to his speech. He would jump from National affairs to the Taylor-Gosbel contest years ago, and tried his best to stir up at that old feeling. He praised his speech for about twenty minutes with an eulogy of Ben Johnson. He handed him all kinds of flowers, about his loyalty, etc. To one who did not know that Johnson had spoken that morning the hearers would have thought that Johnson was dead. Time and again would Stanley refer to what he was doing in Congress in trying to drive out the trust from the country, the state that for several weeks he had been speaking to farmers and that it was hard now for him to make a political speech. That sounded very much like a farmer once, and that was all that was said. Stanley and again would Stanley refer to what he was doing in Congress in trying to drive out the trust from the country, the state that for several weeks he had been speaking to farmers and that it was hard now for him to make a political speech. That sounded very much like a farmer once, and that was all that was said.

THE BARBECUE.

It was announced far and wide that free barbecue dinner would be served, and it was, but how? Everyone expected that a dinner would be served but here was the outfit put before you in a little wooden dish.

A piece of mutton or beef.
A pickle.
Lightbread.
But there was another side to the free business. When you went to get the great, free dinner if you wanted coffee, you had to come across and buy it. There were five different stands where all kinds of soft drinks and lunches could be bought.

There were also two "doll smokes" and a picture gallery to grab the money of the people who attended.

Woman Dressed as Man Robber.

Louisville, Ky., October 12.—The story of a most unusual hold-up which took place last Wednesday night in Shawnee Park, along the Ohio River, at the western extremity of the city, came to light last night. The victim was Dr. A. W. Hooter, a physician. On the night named he was invited over the telephone by a voice he thought he knew, to a "surprise party" in the park. He immediately responded and on entering the park was met by a woman in men's clothing and who presented a revolver at his head demanding his purse. He emptied his pockets of watch, money and other valuables and passed over a diamond scarf pin. The highway woman, on threat of instant death compelled the doctor to take his own medicine, he having to swallow six strychnine tablets found by chance in his pockets. Yesterday he recovered the watch and pin at a pawnbroker's and the detectives led him to the robber whom he identified, but who agreed to leave town to escape punishment which Dr. Hooter was loth to because of the publicity it would entail.

Don't trifle with a cold is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in case of a child. There is nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs and colds in children. It is safe and sure. For sale by all druggists.

KEEP THIS FACT IN MIND.

When the Machine Spell-Binders talk about the large surplus on hand when the Republicans took charge, cite them to the facts in the case herein disclosed.

At the close of Beckham's Administration there was a balance in the Treasury of $1,170,055.72

But there were also outstanding unpaid warrants; claims for materials furnished and for services performed and owing specific appropriations amounting to $1,339,284.00

Or, instead of leaving the Republicans a million dollar surplus, as the Democratic speakers allege recklessly, they really left a deficit on January 6, 1908, of $ 159,228.28

The present administration has paid $3,785,771.80 more to the schools of the State than the last Beckham administration. If they had only paid what Beckham did, there would be a surplus in the State Treasury of more than $2,500,000.00.

STATE FINANCES UNDER TWO ADMINISTRATIONS.

LET THE TRUTH BE TOLD.

The Democrats say that the Republican administration shielded and favored the corporation and business interests and used the State Board of Equalization to increase the taxes of the farmers and country people by raising the county assessments. The following tables, which contain nothing that cannot be verified, show this to be absolutely false:

RECEIPTS FROM WHOLESALE LIQUOR DEALERS.

July 1, 1904 to June 30, 1907 (Democrats) $ 363,225.31
July 1, 1908 to June 30, 1911 (Republicans) 628,012.17

Excess receipts by Republicans over Democrats $ 264,786.86

RECEIPTS FROM RESIDENT AND FOREIGN CORPORATIONS.

July 1, 1904 to June 30, 1907 (Democrats) $ 606,876.75
July 1, 1908 to June 30, 1911 (Republicans) 898,324.81

Excess receipts by Republicans over Democrats $ 291,448.06

RECEIPTS FROM STATE BANKS AND NATIONAL BANKS.

July 1, 1904 to June 30, 1907 (Democrats) $ 435,549.82
July 1, 1908 to June 30, 1911 (Republicans) 549,560.40

Excess receipts by Republicans over Democrats $ 114,010.58

RECEIPTS FROM RAILROADS, FRANCHISE AND TANGIBLE.

July 1, 1904 to June 30, 1907 (Democrats) $1,370,013.76
July 1, 1908 to June 30, 1911 (Republicans) 1,482,456.61

Excess receipts by Republicans over Democrats $ 112,442.85

It will be noted that there was an increase in the collection of revenues under Governor Willson as compared to that for a similar period under Governor Beckham of nearly 73 per cent from wholesale liquor dealers, of 48 per cent from corporations, of 26 per cent from banks and of 8 per cent from railroads while, as a matter of fact the average increase by the Board of Equalization over assessed valuation approved by County Boards was only 32.3 per cent. In other words while the Republican administration was increasing the collections from wholesale liquor dealers 73 per cent, corporations 48 per cent, banks 26 per cent, and railroads 8 per cent, it increased assessments on farmers and other general tax-payer less than 4 per cent.

Two People who Attended Democratic Barbecue Suffer Heavy Losses.

It appears very much that the pickpockets were on the grounds yesterday and on the job ready for anything that they could find at the Democratic barbecue.

Mr. Thomas Duke suffered the heaviest loss, when his pocket was picked and his pocket book containing $75 to over $100, was stolen.

The second victim was Mr. Rouben Bennett whose watch was stolen while he was at the speaking.

The horse jockeys were also greatly in evidence and many of the streets and alleys of the city, and all around the fair ground entrance they were diligently picking their trade.

Hartford Boy Honored.

Among the young men from Hartford who are attending college who are making quite an enviable reputation for themselves is Raymond W. Timiney, who will be graduated from Kentucky State University, next spring. Last year he was associate editor of The Idea, the official weekly journal of the K. S. U. and this year he was selected as editor-in-chief of that publication, which is in itself quite a nice honor, since there are always so many aspirants for that place.

Recently a meeting was held for the election of the editorial and business staff of The Kentuckian, a large book that is issued at the end of each school year by the students, and Mr. Timiney, was selected as editor of this book. Also Will S. Taylor, of the Agricultural school, was chosen as one of the associate editors. The friends of these young men will be glad to learn of their deserving success.

Notice! Boys Run Off.

Harlan Alford, 17, of Williams Mines, and Alvey Ewen, 17, of Taylor Mines, Ky., ran off from their homes Sunday, Oct. 8, 1911. Their parents forbid anyone giving them employment or money. It is reported they were going to Linton, Ind. Alford has dark complexion, light curly hair, weighs 145 pounds, and is 5 feet 4 and 8 inches tall. Ewen has sandy hair, light complexion, weighs 115 pounds, 5 feet 4 inches tall. Both boys are minors by occupation. Any information towards locating them will be gladly received.

O'REAR SAYS THEY LIED

Refutes Latest Fake Told
by "Father" McCreary.

Judge O'Rear did not Counsel the Use of Force During Gos-bel Contest.

Scottsville, Ky., October 9.—Judge O'Rear entered the capital of Allen county today by the Lincoln-Jackson way, and the way he went after his opponent and truce was also the approved Lincoln-Jackson way. As expected, he answered the latest charge of McCreary, that he counseled violence during the Gosbel-Taylor controversy, at his first opportunity, in a characteristic and convincing manner, and some light he let in upon the conference of Taylor's supporters at the Galt House in 1899 may cause his incident to rise and plague McCreary as the bradly incident, which he wishes to drop already has.

In reference to the latter, Judge O'Rear made the charge that Senator McCreary wrote letters to Democrats who bolted Beckham, thanking them for doing so and for voting for him on the brick. He challenged McCreary and his campaign managers to publish their campaign contributions before the election, and then went into the Taylor conference in detail.

TELLS OF CONFERENCE.

That conference was composed of leading Republicans and Democrats, and included in the list of those present were Judge Alex Humphrey and Marshall Bullitt, of Louisville, both Democrats. On this point Judge O'Rear said: "Last Saturday night at Wickliffe, which is the nearest corner of the First district, near the junction of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, a territory that I had canvassed and left in order to canvass other parts of the State, and where they knew that I could not go again in this campaign, and their charge could not be met. McCreary made the charge, as I read it in the papers, that I was an unsafe and unfit man for Governor because, in 1899, when the contest was on between Gov. Taylor and Mr. Gosbel, over the Governorship of Kentucky, I had, in a conference of Gov. Taylor's friends in the Galt House in Louisville, publicly advised the use of force to secure the seating of Taylor."

"GENTLEMANLY LIARS."

"Now mark you, he did not say in terms that that was so. He said he had it upon the statement of two gentlemen who were present. I want to say that those two gentlemen are two gentlemanly liars if they made that statement."

"Gov. Taylor did call into conference, as I understand it, some of his political friends and supporters at Louisville after the contest had been inaugurated. There were both Democrats and Republicans present. I did not know all of the people who attended the conference, and I doubt if I should know them now."

"The proposition was submitted and discussed: What can we do? There were two things open—one to submit to the constitutional authority for the contest; that is, the House of Representatives. The other was revolution. When I was asked what I thought about it, I declared, that those were the only alternatives that I could see."

"Revolution meant force, violence, arms, civil warfare in Kentucky; that revolution meant the overthrow of the constitutional authority of the Legislature, that revolution meant a government by arms; a government by bayonets in Kentucky, and that was an unthinkable proposition; that we had better leave the question to the constituted authorities and appeal finally to the people, and such was the judgment of every man who expressed an opinion, so far as I remember."

SHOULD LEARN FACTS.

"I never was in any other conference. After that I was not consulted; I was not asked anything else about it. Mr. McCreary ought to have known that fact. He ought to have ascertained it. What does he do this for? It is for the purpose of whipping back into line those Democrats who are tobacco growers and champagne men, who up to this time have been invulnerable to the arguments and persuasions brought to bear on them.

"That is the situation they are now trying to meet. They are trying to fan into a flame the prejudices that brought such havoc and such ruin to Kentucky, that they may profit by it politically, but he alone is not responsible. That was done by his management; Mr. Haley, Mr. Beckham and the machine and their purpose is to continue the domination of Kentucky's politics, commercially and otherwise, and continue to control. That is the question put up to the people of Kentucky and these are the methods."

"Many of them at this conference were of the type of Judge Alex P. Humphrey, of Louisville; Col. Thomas Bullitt, of Louisville, both of them distinguished Democrats; Lieut. Gov. John Marshall, Col. Sam H. Starns, late Auditor of State, and General Dan Lindsay, of Frankfort, and people of that type. The proposition was what can we do. Mark you, the contest had been instituted to deprive the majority of Kentuckians of their votes in that contest, to give the office to the man who had been defeated by the people, to change the election from the people to the Legislature, the Constitution to the contrary."

McCREARY WAS SPONSOR.

"You will recall the blunders of that campaign, begun at the Music Hall convention and its rough methods carried on through the campaign, splitting the Democratic party; with a law for holding elections and putting the whole power of elections in the hands of his party. Mr. McCreary stood

McCreary Stands for Nothing.

McCreary never takes a stand for anything, and just drifts with the tide. He has no opinions of his own, or else he fails to express them. The members of his own party realize this fact, although they regret to admit it, but witness the following letter that was written by John S. Lawrence, editor of the Cadiz, Ky., Record. This letter was written to a prominent political leader of Kentucky. It follows:

Dear Sir:—In regard to your question about Senator McCreary's position upon the liquor question, I will agree with you that he does not take as firm a stand upon this as upon many other questions, as he might or as you and I would, but having lived around him most of your life, and knowing him much better than I do, you know that this has always been one of his weak points. He never comes out very strong upon any point very much, etc. ☐

JUDGE BREATHITT TALKS FINANCE

Attorney General Exposes Errors
in Democratic Charges.

Judge James Breathitt, attorney general of Kentucky, in an enthusiastically received speech at Williamsburg, in behalf of the Republican side ticket, headed by Judge O'Rear, completely disproved the wild assertions by the Democrats that the present Republican administration inherited a million dollars and will finish the term owing a million dollars. He showed that by splendid management of state finances, although the Democratic legislature appropriated many large sums aside from current expenses, the present administration will go out of office with the state not owing more than $125,000. On the subject of state finances, Judge Breathitt said:

My Friends: They accuse the Republicans of squandering the money of the people, and they say as an evidence of that that when they went out of power on the 31st day of December, 1907, they left in the treasury of the state a million and four hundred thousand dollars, and that the Republicans have by extravagance and by squandering the money there dissipated that entire sum of a million and nearly a half of dollars.

Answers the Charge.

Now, is this true? If it is, my friends—I am going to be candid with you—if it is true that the Republicans have squandered nearly a million and a half dollars of the people's money that was there in cold cash, left to them by a previous Democratic administration, then the Republican party does not deserve the applause or the approval of the people of this state. And upon that issue now, I am perfectly willing to rest the case of this administration.

You left in the treasury, so you say, nearly a million and a half dollars. For argument's sake, I am going to grant that this is substantially true. It is substantially true that in the treasury of the state of Kentucky, at the close of Mr. Beckham's administration, there were a million and a half dollars. But, my friends, if the Republican party should pursue the same course pursued by that Democratic administration, we could get out of power at the close of this year and leave more than two million dollars in the treasury. (Applause.)

Republicans Paid Debts.

The Republican party has always believed in paying its honest debts, in meeting its honest obligations. Now, when we took office the Democrats had not paid the school teachers for two months. They had not paid the officers of the courts. They had not paid fees due the clerks in Louisville and other places; and they had permitted to accumulate in the treasury claims unpaid, which they should have paid, more than sufficient to wipe out every dollar that they had in the treasury of the state of Kentucky. Now, is this true? Let's see. I want to call your attention to a proposition which these Democrats strenuously avoid. During the first legislature after we went into power, when all these facts were fresh in the minds of the people, the senate of the state of Kentucky passed this resolution:

"Be it resolved by the senate of Kentucky that the auditor of public accounts be required to furnish the senate a statement showing the gross receipts of the state treasury for the year preceding the 31st day of January, 1908."

The senate and the house of representatives were in session at that time, and this is the resolution sent to the auditor. And the auditor responded promptly and he shows that the Democrats left in the treasury up to 1908—of course that included some collections that we had made in the month of January—there was in the treasury and collected during that month $1,790,480.88.

Some Big Claims Paid.

Now listen, my friends. When that money was found there the question came up, have they paid the debts? Here is what the auditor said to the senate of the state as to what disposition was made of that money. On January 7, 1908—that was just one day after the officers elected by the Republican party went into power. The governor was in, of course, in December, but the other officers did not take their places until the 6th day of January. One day after that time and before we had had an opportunity to collect a dollar of taxes or to accumulate a single claim against the treasury of this state, there were presented for payment to the auditor of your state the following claims: School claims $557,299. Now, the Democrats had left that unpaid. It was due in December and January and they had failed to pay a single cent of it. Why didn't they pay it? Simply because they wanted to accumulate, as they claim, a large surplus in the treasury and go before the people and say "We have accomplished wonders; we have left this large sum there to the Republican administration."

To asylums we paid $53,000.
Penitentiaries, $38,000.
Idiot claims, $15,000.
Trustees of the jury fund, $11,000.
Criminal procedure, $18,000.
Eastern Kentucky normal school, $7,500.

Attorney fees, $2,550.
Feeble minded institute, $3,410.
Jefferson court fees, $3,552.
Making the amount which we paid out immediately upon going into office, and which the Democratic administration should have paid—leaving out one item to which I will call your attention later, a total of $737,216.

If they had paid that sum themselves, which they should have paid, they would not have had the great big balance which they claim to have left there. In addition to that, we paid $336,229.05 school money in addition to the $557,299 that I called your attention to, making the total paid out by us $1,073,645. They would have you believe that they turned over to us a million and nearly a half and that we have squandered it, but you see, my friends, when you look into the facts, it is not true. That money, every dollar of it, was paid out on Democratic debts.

Republicans Increase Collections.
Now then, let me show you another thing. They tell you that we have been favoring banks. We have collected more money from the state and national banks than did the Democratic administration preceding us. We have collected more money off of railroads; we have collected more money on whisky. For instance, the highest sum they ever assessed whisky per barrel was $8.00. We raised the assessment to $10, and we have collected more than 25 per cent more than the Democratic administration from that source.

They assessed the Southern Pacific railroad on its franchise for years at only $5,000 per year. This administration, and under my advice as attorney general, raised that assessment on the franchise tax of the Southern Pacific railroad from $5,000 up to $25,000, and over. And yet they would have you believe that the Republican party favors corporations.

We did more than that. There are millions of dollars of assessed value of property owned by the distillers of whisky. Now listen, my friends. The Democratic party has been in power all the time save, as Mr. McDermott says, for two terms, and they had the legislature one of those. Now, listen: Every distiller in this commonwealth sells the output of his distillery immediately upon making it. It is sold to people in New York and other foreign states, and they issue what they call a receipt for it, and in that receipt it is stated that the holder of that receipt, when he calls for this whisky, shall pay 5 cents per barrel per month storage, or 60 cents per barrel per year. On that character of property the Democratic party had never collected a single solitary cent of taxes. And yet we brought suit, this administration brought suit, against these liquor people, these distillers, claiming that these storage accounts were just as much assessable for taxation as your mortgage note or any other property which you hold. And that case was fought out in the lower court and taken to the supreme court of the state and the court of appeals held that those accounts were subject to taxation and made them pay on it, and the state will collect more than $100,000 from that one source alone; and they never had collected a dollar from these people.

State Nearly Out of Debt.

Another thing the Democratic legislature did. They made appropriations out of the current revenue of this state amounting to a little less than $1,800,000. They said to us, "You have got to pay these appropriations;" and yet they made no sort of provision at all for raising a single dollar to pay any part of those appropriations. They left us to run the state, to pay the ordinary expenses and these extra appropriations for charitable and other institutions.

Now, in the management of this state of affairs in the state of Kentucky, we have wrestled with those appropriations, we have paid nearly all that was appropriated to the normal schools and to the state university, and we have paid all that was appropriated to these various charitable institutions, practically. Yet, notwithstanding these heavy appropriations that were made, when the Republican party goes out of power in December there will not, in my judgment and according to the figures, be exceeding $125,000 of indebtedness of the state of Kentucky. (Applause.) And this is due not to any mismanagement on the part of the Republican party, but it is due to these heavy appropriations made by the Democrats.

They overlook the proposition that we have had all these heavy extra appropriations to handle and the ordinary running expenses of the state to pay, and received nothing from any outside source. They received just before, or just after, the contract was let for the construction of our magnificent capitol $1,500,000 from the federal government. Now, what became of that $1,500,000? They say they paid debts with it. But suppose they had not received this money, you could not have found $1,400,000 in the treasury of the state when they went out of power. It would have taken every dollar they had raised from taxes to pay what they paid in the construction of that capitol.

FARM TOPICS.

LIFE OF THE GRAPEVINE.

There are some who contend that the life of a grapevine is longer than that of the oak. It is rare that a wild grapevine is found that has died of old age. Pliny mentions a vine 600 years old. There is a vine at Harton Court, England, planted in 1769, while here in America there is a wild grapevine on the shore of Mobile Bay within a mile of Daphne, Ala., commonly known as the "G-norah Jackson" vine, more than 6 feet in circumference at its base. There is a grapevine in Carpinteria, Cal., under which more than 800 persons may stand, its trunk is 8 feet in diameter at the base and it has borne as high as ten tons of fruit. It is said that this vine was planted in 1812.

VARIATIONS IN VARIETIES.

It is quite certain that potatoes will not mix in the hill any more than chickens will mix in the nest, but this does not prevent a change in varieties in the hill, not due to mixing but to the tendency of all living things to "sport." There will be occasional ears of red corn when none are planted, and red corn can be propagated by planting these red kernels so will there be variations in potatoes, and new varieties may be propagated by planting these sports. Ordinarily, new varieties are obtained by planting the seeds grown on the potato tops, and these seeds will mix because they are seeds—the potatoes are merely swollen places in the roots.

MOLE AN INSECT DESTROYER.

The Illinois authorities recently made an examination of the stomachs of moles. It was found that half or more of the food of the mole consists of insects and their larvae, most of them noxious. So far as its food is concerned, the mole is thus beneficial on the whole. There is no direct evidence that it will eat potatoes or other tubers, but circumstantial evidence admitting that mole of heriforous habit may occupy mole runs in fall. It was shown that corn may form an important item of the food of moles; that recently planted corn is sometimes destroyed by them, and that if numerous in corn fields in spring they are capable of doing considerable damage there.

A GOOD TRAP CROP.

It requires considerable vigilance to keep insects from destroying cabbage. The cabbage plant furnishes almost an ideal place for insects to hide from the gardener and continue their destructive work. Do not permit them to injure your plants.

Mustard has a pungent taste and usually attracts insects by its peculiar smell. It is sometimes advisable to plant mustard as a trap crop to catch insects and keep them from destroying other plants. When the insects have made a raid upon the mustard the plants may be sprayed with poison or pulled up and destroyed.

NUTRIENTS OF FOOD.

Protein, starch, fat, sugar and fiber are the nutrients that make up foods. Protein is the only one form which muscle and tissue can be made—the others serve to produce heat, energy and fat. Starch and sugar are equal in food value. The fiber in the plant cut green has the same food value as starch; when the plant is mature, the fiber becomes largely indigestible as in straw. Fat serves the same purpose as the animal body as starch; it is more concentrated, having two and one-half times as much nutriment in a given weight.

ROTATION IN THE GARDEN.

The garden needs rotation as well as the field. Do not think that you can grow cabbage or onions or lettuce upon one particular spot continuously without meeting with failure. Besides producing a generous yield, a number of insect pests and fungus diseases will thrive from year to year when a complete rotation is not practiced. Change the different garden crops from one part of the plot to another, and occasionally send the plot to clover for a year and grow the garden on a fertile spot on the back part of the farm.

GREEN MANURING.

When green-manure crops are plowed under, there is more or less tendency of such material to sour the land, and applications of lime after plowing under such crops sweeten the soil and secure a more favorable condition for the growth of clover. It is very important to work in clover as often as possible, and a sweet soil is necessary to get good results with them.

TREES FOR THE FARM.

Nut trees have many things to commend them for shade and ornamental purposes. While many of them are slow in growth and require good soil and plenty of moisture, they are notable for longevity, beauty, grace and utility. In most cases the demands of other trees are little less, while most species fall short of these desirable points.

SYSTEMATIC ROTATION.

A rotation of crops without definite aim is of little value. To grow crops without a purpose in view would be foolish, yet it is just as foolish to follow a rotation without a definite object. Have a well-defined reason for your rotation and let the rotation be adapted to your purpose. This is the only way to get any benefit from a crop rotation.

VALUE OF EARTH WORMS.

The little earth worm is a very valuable insect and should be spared whenever it is possible. By burrowing in the earth the earth worm brings up subsoil and mixes it with top soil; opens the particles and permits air, water and organic matter to enter, and this causes chemical and physical changes that produce plant food.

COST OF KEEPING A COW.

It is said by those who are in a position to know, that it costs upon an average about $350 a year to keep a dairy cow. Upon this estimate she must produce 150 pounds of butter to pay her board. All above this amount is profit and any amount below represents loss to the dairyman.

The Philosopher of Folly.

"Why is it," asks the Philosopher of Folly, "that after a fellow has taken a week off, he always wakes up with the feeling that he is about to be evicted and arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses?"

Never out of Work.

The busiest little things ever made are Dr. King's New Life Pills. Every pill is a sugar coated globe of health that changes weakness into strength, languor into energy, brain-fog into mental power; curing Constipation, Headache, Chills, Dyspepsia, Malaria. Only 25c at all druggists.

Salt production is perhaps the oldest industry in the world.

A Strange Story.

Argyle, Mich.—Mrs. Wm. H. Carson in a letter from Argyle, says: "I was almost wild with pain in my head, an other severe pains from womanly troubles. After using Cardui, I obtained great relief. Further use of Cardui raised me from my bed of agony. Cardui saved my life when nothing else would help me". Whether seriously sick, or simply ailing, take Cardui, the woman's tonic. It relieves pain, regulates irregularities, builds weak, nervous women back to health. Ask your druggist about it. E-24

The latest burglar-proof safe revolution is constantly, when not in use.

A Lifetime Trouble.

Ingram, Texas—"Ever since I became a woman," writes Mrs. E. M. Evans, of this place. "I suffered from womanly trouble. Last fall, it got so bad, I had to stay in bed for nearly a week every month. Since taking Cardui, I feel better than I have for years." You can rely on Cardui. Prepared especially for women, it relieves womanly pain, by acting on the cause and builds up womanly strength where it is most needed. Purely vegetable. Mild, but certain in action. Try it. At your druggists. E-21

The eggs of the Spanish hen are the largest in the world. Seven of them will weigh a pound.

Blind Dizzy Spells.

Wilmington, N. C.—Mrs. Ora L. Ritter, writes from this place: "I used to have blind dizzy spells, and weak cold spells went all over me. Different doctors could not tell me what was wrong. After taking Cardui I am all right and in better health than for 10 years." Cardui is a remedy for women which has been used by women for nearly a lifetime. It prevents the unnecessary pains of female troubles, such as headache, backache, dizziness, dragging down feelings, etc. Try it. E-23

After a five-years' effort, a burning gas well in the Caddo field, Louisiana, has just been extinguished.

Lame back is one of the most common forms of muscular rheumatism. A few applications of Chamberlain's Liniment will give relief. For sale by all druggists. m

The pilot charts of the British meteorological office show numerous places on the high seas where "white water" is encountered. The ocean looks like milk, while east and sky are filled with milky fog. The strange sight is supposed to be due to some form of phosphorescence, but exactly no cause is known for it. "White water" occurs most frequently in the tropical parts of the Indian Ocean.

The best plaster. A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on over the affected parts is superior to a plaster and costs only one tenth as much. For sale by all druggists. m

TOWER HILL.

A Noted London Spot, the Scene of Many Famous Occurrences.

Tower Hill is perhaps both the most important eminence and the most notable spot in all London. Few of us think what great persons have quietly lived there and what others, equally great, have wept and died upon it.

To it, or rather to Great Tower street, came Rochester to pursue his trade as an Italian fortune teller, while the bedridden Buckingham of ten walked thither to consult a conjurer, a strowd, farseeing rogue, who, when Felton bought at the cutler's shop on the summit of the hill for a shilling the knife with which he killed the duke's father, may have known for what purpose it was required.

William Penn was born on this hill in a house close to London wall. Forty-four years later—that is, in A. D. 1685—a poet lay dead, choked by a crust which starvation had urged him to devour too greedily, in an upper room of the Bull tavern. This was the ill-fated Otway. At the time when the son of the muses lay dead Betterton, the celebrated founder of the stage after the restoration, was wringing tears from the eyes of the public, not for the furnished dead, but at his own fictitious sorrows in "Venice Preserved."

It was in Great Tower street that Peter the Great used to pass his evenings drinking hot pepper and brandy with his boon companion, Lord Carnarvon.—London Standard.

Vote for O'Rear and help clean out the Lobby at Frankfort.

We presume The Hartford Herald thought its candidate was too good to say it.

They are now trying to find some one who will swear that Judge O'Rear killed Goshel.

The next time The Hartford Herald
questions a statement in this paper,
it should know what it is talking about.

The Democratic machine of Kentucky has decided that the only way to defeat O'Rear is to discredit him with slander and vicious lies.

They have all taken a whack at O'Rear, and afterward feel very much like they had been hit by some hard substance. O'Rear has got his one day last week.

What has become of the wonderful
"Fair Play" writer that has been helping the Hartford Herald out in its campaign writing? He failed to materialize this week.

"Fair Play", who wrote for the Hartford Herald did not show up at the Fair (?) barbecue yesterday. It seems that suddenly his great admiration (?) for Old Mac has disappeared.
We were expecting "Fair Play" to do the introducing act.

Will the Hartford Herald please tell its readers whether or not it endorses the placing of Ohio county in the same legislative district with Butler and Edmonson, as was done
by its party the last time it attempted to elect the State.

O'Rear is inconsistent—James H.
McGregor. Oh! what an inconsistent man Judge O'Rear is—Ollie James.
This man O'Rear is bound to be inconsistent—McGregor. I am astounded at the inconsistency of Judge O'Rear—John S. Rhea. Nobody who talks like O'Rear can be consistent—Ury Woodson. He's for, he's so say we all—A. O. Stanley.

Of all the molly-coddling we ever heard of the Hartford Herald takes first prize. Last week we stated the exact words of Old McGregor at Fair-month when he said that "The Republican party in Kentucky is a party of assassination, and it, as a party procured the assassination of Goshel."
The Herald says it DEMANDS, (oh, ouch) the exact words, time and place
of this utterance. Well, you champs, we have given it to you.

John Newman is going over the State trying to create sympathy by telling a hard luck story about the Republicans turning him out of his job as Secretary of the State Fair while he was away from home, picking up a little $33,000 purse in for-

to him. Hence he should be elected Commissioner of Agriculture. Newman no doubt neglects to tell his audience that this could not have been done except with the aid of two Democratic members of the Board who had been instructed by him before he left the country to vote for any Republican rather than let another Democrat get the job. Whether he tells it or not this is the gospel truth.
Ask Hubert Vreeland.

McCREARY GETTING DESPER- ATE.

The desperation of a man who feels himself beaten alone explains the shameful demagoguery to which James B. McCreary descended in his Wickliffe attack on Judge O'Rear.

Alleging information from sources
he did not disclose, he charged a man who has for years held the high respect of his fellow-citizens as Judge of their highest court with inciting revolution and urging the use of armed force to protect a political association in the retention of office.

We have no hesitation in declaring the charge to be without foundation in fact. We brand it as a cowardly slandering upon an honorable opponent that McCreary would not have dared to make before any but a partisan audience, steeped in the blind prejudice and passion that have been the curse of Kentucky.

To bring forward such an accusation at this late day is prima facie proof that it is a bold and unscrupulous invention, manufactured for campaign purposes and uttered at a place where its consumption was made possible by a credulous crowd of embellished and dyed-in-the-wool Democrats.

No man not utterly biased will believe that Edward C. O'Rear, whose record as a Judge of the Court of Appeals is without reproach throughout seven years of service, advocated the support of the Taylor administration in its title to office by other than constitutional means. The suggestion that the countenance or approval in any way the employment of armed force is preposterous, and should his traducers be rash enough to attempt any substantiation of this ridiculous charge he will be overwhelmed with proof to the contrary.

The resort to this mud-slinging
marks the last stages of the Democratic campaign that, in its frenzied eagerness to win, by fair means or foul, has rapidly degenerated into politics of the most petty and disgraceful kind. If McCreary were not absolutely desperate, he would not have sullied his own reputation as a man of decency and honor by the use of the coward's weapon.—Louisville Herald.

The Crowds (?) On the Train.

81-2 PEOPLE TO THE COACH.

The Hartford Herald this week
said that the Junior Editor of The Republican was a good hand at estimating crowds at speaking, judging from his report of the O'Rear speaking at Hartford a few weeks ago. They said they were anxiously awaiting our estimate of the Democratic Free (?) barbecue crowd yesterday. The Republican is also anxious to see if the Herald will estimate the speaking yesterday as they did Judge O'Rear's crowd. But here is one little package that we will hand to you, brother.
There were exactly 51 passengers on the 7:19 P. M. train yesterday morning, and some of them were traveling sub-men and fifty per cent.
was composed of women and children.
That was a nice, big crowd all right
after the campaign committees had engaged four extra coaches. There were the two regular coaches thus making an average of eight and one-half people to the coach. My, what a crowd!

120 ON THE MIXED TRAIN.

Two extra coaches were added to the mixed local train that arrived yesterday at 9 o'clock, making a total of three and one-half coaches. The Democrats had banked heavily on 500 hundred people coming on that train and there were exactly 120 passengers, by the check that was given by one of the officials on the train.
While the Democrats had urged everyone to come, yet not a single representative from the campaign committee was on the train to meet the millions.
This fact was commented on by two men that a representative of The Republican heard talking after they had gotten off of the train. Yes, they got a nice reception. Whew! What a crowd (?)

Statute of Lincoln.

A full figure statue of Abraham Lincoln has just been cast in bronze
in New York to be placed in the rotundah of the State Capitol at Frankfort, Ky.

Adolph Alexander Weinman of New York is the sculptor of this latest Lincoln statue, which is donated to the Commonwealth by John Brookings Speed, a nephew of Joshua Speed, who was one of the most intimate friends of Lincoln.
The statue is regarded as a striking resemblance of President Lincoln in the closing years of his life.

THE MAN AROUND TOWN.

A few days ago a rather bashful
young woman went into a store carrying three chickens. She inquired the price of chickens the same time
put them on the counter. The clerk didn't know the chickens' feet were tied, and asked if they would lay there. She bit her handkerchief and said: "No, sir; they are mousters."

We have often heard of men who forgot about church services and their lodge meeting but until last Friday night did The Man Around Town ever hear of a gentleman who wanted to attend his lodge every night. This was Prof. W. L. Hedrick, Noble
Grand of Acme Lodge, I. O. O. F.
He gathered his books and started up town, and Mrs. Hedrick presumed he had a school board meeting to attend and asked no questions. He went thru town and told the boys to hurry up and come to lodge as it was meeting time. The members knew that the lodge did not meet that Friday night, so told him they would be up in a few minutes. The professor went along, grumbling no doubt, about the inactivity of the members, and when he got to the door of the lodge hall he heard voices of some ladies. He went a little farther and then he came to him that he ladies of the Maccabees met that night, and he went home by the shortest route.

Dr. J. B. Tappan is feeling good since his shipment of Big Ben clocks have come in, and is so happy that he is running his graphophone machine overtime.

When we see so many young men with their hair parted in the middle and hanging down over their forehead so as to obscure every trace of intellect, and so many young women with their hair all frizzly-froisly and flopping around their faces in fifty different directions, we are not surprised that the followers of Darwin are now positively sure that mankind descended from the monkey.

The influence of a minister is often discussed, but the leading question heard for the past week is: "Have you seen the new preacher?" "What does he look like?" "Do you think you will like him?" We know of no other solution than go to hear him
next Sunday and see for yourself.

The Man Around Town heard on the street the other day of a man who claimed he was too poor to take his home paper, but all the same he read a notice in a newspaper, telling how to prevent a horse from glob-bering, and sent one dollar and fifty cents for the recipe. When the one-dollar and fifty cents worth of information came it said: "Teach your horse how to spit."

The teachers trip that was planned some weeks ago by Judge Wilson and Supt. Leach is an assured go, and both of these gentlemen are working hard to make it a profitable and pleasant trip. The teachers and persons will leave on next Tuesday morning and Louisville will be the first city to be visited.

The leading secret societies of our county continue to increase in numbers. There is something in a secret organization that strongly appeals to a married man.

What is the matter with the people of our county getting together? In past years that was one of the strong features, but of late there has been too much discussion, too much silent kneeling. Let us cut out that kind of business. A town, like a house, divided against itself must fall. It would make us all feel better to work together.

At this time of the year people are naturally discussing in their minds the question, where shall we buy our goods? As our answer to this important problem we refer them to the advertising columns which will be found prominently from all the principal business houses in the county. Never trade with the man who does not advertise, if you want nice, fresh, clean goods at reasonable prices. Find a man who does not advertise, and you will find a man who is rusty and old-fashioned as the goods which he is trying to sell.

We have residing in our town a young man, who, if reports are true,
is wonderfully and carefully made.
His doctor said he had an iron constitution; his friends said he had nerves of steel; his uncle said that he had a wooden head; the girls said he had a heart of stone; his enemies declared that there was more brass to him than anything else; others declared he had lots of sand; while his admirers declared he was all wool and a yard wide.

Resolution of Respect.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father in His wisdom to remove from us to his reward our beloved sister, Past Grand Noble C. Garrett.

Therefore, be it resolved by Dwyer
Drop Robak Lodge No. 91, I. O. O. F.

First. That we lay in humble submission to the will of God in this dispensation of his providence, although our hearts are grieved at the great loss we have sustained in death of our sister, yet we know that our beloved sister does all things well Second. That in the death of Sister Noble C. Garrett Dwyer Drop Robak Lodge No. 91 has lost one of its best and most useful members and faithful officers, having filled nearly every office in the lodge with credit to herself and honor to the Lodge.

Third. That we take this method of expressing our sympathy and prayer for the grief-stricken family in this sad hour of bereavement.

Fourth. That we will wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days
also that Noble Grand's and Vice Grand's stands be draped in mourning
for thirty days.

Fifth. That a copy of these resolutions be placed in our Records and a copy presented to Brother Garrett, and a copy furnished to the local papers and the Kentucky Old Follow.

No Time for Socialism.

Chancellor James R. Day of Syracuse University says: "Citizens must be as big as their age. It is no time for small and ignorant men with blind prejudices. In no age could a demagogue do so much damage with available and unthinking men as now for in no other generation have there been such mighty interests to ruin.
One can smash vast values in a short time. With the tremendous increase of our country in everything that contributes to the civilization of the world, with our commerce and trade reaching all nations, with our institutions an asylum of all peoples, with values untold in maddest and maddest and in thousand useful arts and with millions coming into every decade of our population, with problems that appeal to the supreme wisdom of the strongest minds re-enforced by the latest thinking of all ages, the obligation laid upon the plain, every-day citizen is tremendous, and it is no time for the ranting socialist, without sense of proportion or appreciation of the new forces of this mighty era. He must make way for vast movements and not center his thoughts upon petty measures."

Just at this time the mail order houses are active in flooding the country with big handsome gotten up fall and winter catalogues, quoting attractive prices on staple articles and making all sorts of big sounding claims for your cash. They do not offer to exchange their goods for the farmers' eggs, poultry, butter or other produce. They don't trust a penny's worth, but make you pay cash before you get the goods and the freight besides. If anything is wrong with the goods or they do not suit, they will not exchange them for you. They may not take into your city or territory, with which our schools are mainly filled, roads, bridges and sidewalks built. They do not contribute to our churches, charitable institutions, nor to our poor.

TEACHERS WILL TAKE EDUCATIONAL TRIP

Will Leave on Morning of Oct. 17--Will Visit Many Schools.

The trip proposed by the Ohio County Teachers and Trustees and all the friends of popular education in the County at the Ohio County Teachers Institute, will start on Tuesday morning, October 17th. Parties intending to go that have not already done so, will deposit with Superintendent Henry Leach by Saturday October 14th, the railroad fare of $3.00, and the schedule of train on which the teachers will leave is as follows:

Smallhouse, 6:40 a. m.
Kings, 6:53 a. m.
Centertown, 7:05 a. m.
Hartford, 7:19 a. m.
Dunkhurst, 7:33 a. m.
Sunnydale, 7:40 a. m.
Dundee, 7:48 a. m.
Elmhurst, 8:05 a. m.

Tickets for the trip at $3.00 each will be on sale at each of the above stations.

The train will reach Louisville at 12:50 and will be met at the station by committees representing the educational interests of Louisville and the teachers will first be invited to visit the kinder garden classes and the special school for deficient and incorrigible children, a social center meeting together with special entertainments furnished by the city schools and citizens of Louisville and to visit all the public schools and points of interest in the city and to be the guests of the city at a luncheon and street car rides, etc.

The party will arrive at the Mammoth Cave on the afternoon of the 18th and visit the Cave and arrive in Bowling Green on the afternoon of the 19th, where they will be entertained by the city schools and the State Normal, arriving home on Friday evening the 20th.

This is the opportunity of a lifetime for the teachers and trustees and all the friends of education throughout the County to investigate and profit by the improved methods used in the best schools in the State and to visit the largest city in the State and one of the largest in the South and the Mammoth Cave, one of the great wonders of the world and our State Normal at Bowling Green, in which we have so much interest and pride.

That will be of incalculable benefit to the cause of education. The County there can do no doubt and everyone who can possibly do so, should take the advantage of the rates offered by the railroad companies, hotels, etc. (being a total of $11.00 actual expense for the whole trip) and be one of this party.

Notice.

All of those who are interested in rural telephone are requested to meet with the Concord Local at Concord, Ky., Oct. 14th at night. Those from neighboring districts are requested to meet also.

HENRY M. PIRTLE, Sec'y. and Com.

Birds do not know what to make of the ringing of electric bells on posts or trees. They have no earthly fear any more of any scawcrow, flapping in the wind, but the sound of the bell fills them with terror. Hence an Austrian has patented a scawcrow system, by which a clock is enabled to sound at irregular intervals a number of bells scattered over an orchard.

To the Members of Hartford Baptist Church.

My Dearly Beloved:--
Nearly two and a half years ago an entire stranger to you and you to me, you called me to become your pastor. I was happy in my Paducah pastorate, but almost a physical wreck. Your unanimous and urgent appeal to me as the voice of the Lord. These years have come and gone and I have very little reason to doubt but that the Lord wanted me. Hartford. The work shows for itself.

By your devotion and faithfulness to me and the work, you have made the work possible and my stay pleasant. No pastor ever had a truer and more loyal corps of Sunday school workers. Happy, thrice happy is the pastor who has such a Sunday school superintendent and staff as it has been mine to have here. The disciples are so noble a set of men as can be found. God only knows how these have cheered me in my work, helped me in my efforts and prayed for me in my toil.

All the different departments of the church have stood by me faithfully. No man could expect greater harmony than I have found. There has been less friction and fewer divisions than any church of his size I have ever known. Our work has been as pleasant as any pastor could ask. But for some months it has been becoming more manifest that my work with you was drawing to a close. You remember that I hesitated about accepting your unanimous call to stay with you this year, and I fear that my horror for a short pastorate and my love for you at last led me to make the decision in the wrong way.

From the beginning of this year until now I have had doubts about the decision and have felt that I was burdensome to the Church.

Other places are calling for me and I feel that the time has fully come for us to sever our connection as church and pastor. It pains me to leave you, for I love you dearly. I have been with some of you in the home of fasting and have been with some of you in the home of mourning. I shall ever thank God for the honor of being your pastor, for visiting your homes and working with you in the master's service.

May the Lord God of Israel guide you in the selection of a pastor who will lead you into larger fields and greater things.

This, my resignation, I tender asking you to accept the same as took effect Oct. 22nd, 1911.

May the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ abide with you till the work on earth is done.

Your loving and retiring pastor,
J. W. BRUNGER

KENTUCKY HOME IS THE ISSUE

Next Year Is Time For National Politics, Declares O'Rear.

STATE POLITICS THIS YEAR

Kuttawa, Ky.—When Judge E. C. O'Rear, the Republican candidate for governor, declared to a large crowd here that "The Old Kentucky Home" was the issue in this campaign, and not national questions, he was wildly applauded. The crowd showed that the efforts by the Democrats to distract attention from the real issues of reform has not confused them. Judge O'Rear spoke as follows:

My idea is that this campaign presents the question as to those policies affecting the government of this state, and this state alone. Having that view of it, I say, that to introduce any other question foreign to the policies of the state government would be to mislead the public mind, and carry it far adrift from the consideration of the true issue to be considered.

My opponent takes the position that national politics has a controlling place in the discussions of this campaign. His idea is that you ought to vote for the man who agrees with you as to whether we should have a high or low tariff on wool.

There is a reason, I think, why Senator McCreary and I have divergent views of the case. For more than 80 years, Senator McCreary's attention, his labors, his thought, his study, have all been concentrated upon national affairs at Washington. He is thoroughly saturated with the idea of national politics. He has the notion, and it may be a correct one, that he is a conspicuous national figure. He was a member of Cleveland's monetary commission sent to Brussels in 1892, and one of the commissioners that recommended the gold standard.

He was at the head of the Carnegie peace commission, since he has been defeated for senator, whose headquarters are in New York city, and whose jurisdiction is to extend the peace around the world. Thus, his thought has not only been centered at Washington, but in the last few years it has been considering mainly international questions, in which peace between Japan and Russia, or the South American republics, and questions of that sort, have had his attention. He has been at home but very little during that time.

Something Wrong Here. I am a Kentuckian, born of a Kentucky stock of people on both sides. I have lived all my life in Kentucky. Whatever of hope, whatever of interest, whatever of attachment I have, are all centered in this state. All of my study has been centered upon Kentucky.

For eleven years I have been a member of the supreme court of your state, where daily there have come before me any number of cases, presenting the state of the constitutional law, the statutory laws, and the various phases of the social status of the people of Kentucky. In the course of these years, it has developed to my mind that there is something serious about the matter in the government of Kentucky. I believe I have discovered what it is, and it is that matter that I think ought to be brought before the people of Kentucky.

Therefore, I have felt that it was not only legitimate and necessary that I should discuss purely Kentucky issues in this campaign, but, in addition, the constitution of this state separates elections on national and state affairs. The constitution requires state elections to be held in one year, and national elections to be held at least twelve months apart from that. Identifying that the framers of the constitution intended that state affairs and national affairs should not be so mingled as to bring about confusion in the public mind, realizing that one or the other might mislead a great number of people as to how they should vote upon each of these propositions. Thus you will see that I approach the consideration of the question from the national standpoint, looking at it from the distance of Washington, with his eye on Washington, with his aspirations fixed upon a great national party.

Answers McCreary. Senator McCreary, in his debates before Kentuckians in this campaign, has propounded to me a number of questions, bearing upon national issues. For instance, as to what I might think of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, as to what I think of Schedule K, which, I understand from reading the newspapers, has to do with the tariff on wool. He says that I dodge the questions, that I am insincere, implying by his statement that I am unable to discuss those questions or unwilling.

I have told you why I prefer not to discuss them. My reason for it is that there is so much to discuss bearing directly upon this campaign in Kentucky, affecting Kentucky alone, that I haven't the time to discuss anything else, and I doubt if the people have the patience to hear much of anything else. I know that their vote this year can not settle the national questions one way or the other, or tend to do so.

But they say in response to that, that a United States senator is to be elected this winter by the legislature, and that however we may vote for representatives will affect that race. That is true, and to that extent, of course, there is indirectly brought into the discussion the national phase; but I am not a candidate for United States senator. I am a candidate for governor. I take the position that the affairs in Kentucky are of enough importance, and are so vital to the welfare of Kentuckians and to the state of our government, that we had better not have these matters postponed for six years, because in every state race that arises a United States senatorship is involved in the same way that it is this year; and if, therefore, we are to settle the policies of Kentucky upon national issues because a United States senatorship is involved, we would never be permitted to settle them upon any other basis than that of the tariff or whatever may be the bone of contention between the national parties at Washington, and so Kentucky would be required to abdicate her own state government, to leave it neglected, to leave it a prey to special interests, which are fattening upon the people day by day and sapping their vitality and corrupting the politics of the state, so that, perchance, we may elevate some favorite son to a soft cushion seat for six years in the United States senate. The old idea of exalting a particular man as a leader, and of neglecting the rights, the privileges, the welfare of the plain people of the state, no longer obtains. So, I insist, that logically, fairly, legitimately, the question for settlement this year is the government in Kentucky, and not the national questions.

Now, I lay this argument upon your judgments as thinking men: Am I right in my position, or am I wrong? If I am not right, then it is not from a sense of fear that I do not discuss the questions which Senator McCreary propounds, but from a mistaken notion as to what is the important and controlling matter this year. If I am mistaken, it is because I believe that Kentuckians this year are more concerned in the settlement of Kentucky's politics than they are in casting a vote indicating what they are going to do next year when the national race comes on.

It might not be fair for me to charge against Senator McCreary that the reason why he wants to discuss national politics instead of state politics is because he wants to dodge state politics. It may be true that he believes that national politics is the main thing. It may be that he thinks that it is more important for the people of Kentucky to have Schedule K adopted, than that we should have clean politics in Kentucky, the Third House and the corrupting lobby at Frankfort abolished, the power of people enlarged in their elections, the prison commission taken out of politics and questions of that kind settled. But I think "The Old Kentucky Home" is the vital issue and whether it shall be made better. (Applause.)

MAKE KENTUCKY A FREE STATE

I tell you, my countrymen, we are waking up to a realization of the truth, that a people's government is the people's business; and if the people neglect their government, their business will suffer. Just as sure as you neglect your farm or your store or your vocation, whatever it is, it will suffer; and the reason why government has fallen low in Kentucky is because the people have neglected the matter of politics and left it too much to the politicians.

This campaign in Kentucky—not to prosecute the inquiry further than our own immediate country—is pitched along these lines sharply. As to the Republican party, we first made the fight in the party, and won it there, to popularize the government of Kentucky. I mean by that, to remove from the domination of the politics of Kentucky, the controlling influence of whatever big interest there is that would attempt to dominate it, whether it is the whisky trust, the tobacco trust, the oil trust, the railroad combine, or whatever it is. Our idea is to remove them from politics, not alone because they are trusts, but because the domination of the politics by any interest save that of the public interest is a maximum danger to the people. It is necessary, if the people would be safe, to so frame and shape the laws of the state as to make it impossible to have a repetition of the conditions that have dominated Kentucky for a quarter of a century; that have made us a backward people in spite of our industry and the fertility of our soil, and the smiles from heaven that have come upon us; that have hampered Kentucky's youth and hampered the ambition of her young manhood; that have retarded the development of the state. For 25 years these things have continued in spite of politicians, or rather because of them, perhaps, and if we are not going to have them any more, we must do away with the cause, because as long as the cause is there, you are going to have the result. It is not enough to smash the party machine, for you will have another one spring up in its place. The idea is to make it so that you can't have a party machine. O'Rear at Benton.

The battleship New York, on which work begins this week, is hailed as the largest in the world. Her displacement will be 27,000 tons. The biggest German dreadnoughts have on ly 22,000 and British ships of the same class but 21,000. However, Brazil has a monitor, the Rio de Janeiro, which is to displace 32,000 tons when she comes her twelve thousand-ton guns. Hence the New York may not be the biggest of all, but only the most powerful.

superior for that election law and approved it. He stood sponsor for the convention and the result of that Music Hall convention and approved it.

"McCreary was adviser of the contest conducted by Mr. Goodell against Mr. Beckham's own judgment and inclination, so the end that McCreary might ride into power subsequently upon the political wave of prejudice and passion thereby engendered."

Judge O'Rear was introduced by J. H. Graham, Commonwealth's Attorney, who called him the man of the hour. Judge O'Rear's address in the main hall with the necessity for upholding constitutional government as the only means by which equality of representation, rule of the majority and self-government by the people can be insured.

EQUALITY DENIED.

Graham charged that the right of equality of representation has been denied certain sections in order that the Democratic machine and the lobby may retain control of the Legislature, through the Democratic Legislators, regardless of the popular majority in the State. McCreary, who denounced the machine, when he was a candidate for the nomination for United States Senator against Beckham and was defeated, has become its candidate, he said, and he told why.

"Now Beckham charges that Senator McCreary bolted his nomination and aided in his defeat. Why then did Gray, Beckham and his machine select Senator McCreary for their candidate for Governor of Kentucky. There must have been a reason for it and there is a reason for it, and I charge the reason to be this: That on account of Senator McCreary's income partnership, his willingness to back anything that his party in convention or through its leadership would declare for, regardless of its own past expressions, that they felt that he would be the safest man to have in the Governor's chair at Frankfort, while the machine continued to run all of the other business of Kentucky."

"At the same time, they had figured it out, Senator McCreary had in the past been a very successful politician, was a man of smooth, oily speech, a man who had never been against anything or anybody, and therefore would not be an objectionable candidate to any element. Furthermore, they realized that Senator McCreary's attitude upon the liquor question was wholly unknown to the State and that having been supported in his last race by the liquor interests, Mr. Beckham would bring in the dry interests and they would fly. What they wanted to do was to win; they didn't care so much for McCreary. Therefore, they nominated him."

BRADLEY'S ELECTION.

This is a hint to refer to the election of Bradley. He said if it was wrong for those Democratic bolters to vote for Bradley it was worse for them to vote for McCreary, since he had just been defeated for the nomination by Beckham, and if any one were foolish to vote for Bradley it is a self-evident proposition that he was better voted for McCreary first.

Judge O'Rear said he had asked McCreary whether he wished to be voted for by the bolters or permit them to proceed, and McCreary avoided the question by saying he had letters from Gus Richardson and Mr. Harris, telling him that he had written them to request that they ask the bolters not to support him.

"Now I have given Senator McCreary every opportunity to tell whether he wrote to those four men," said Judge O'Rear. "He quades that question. I now charge Senator McCreary that he did write to those four men after they had bolted Beckham, and thanked them for having done so and for voting for him."

This assertion of party partiality on the part of the Democratic candidate for Governor was greeted with a storm of shouts and applause.

THOUSANDS PRESENT.

Two thousand people rode or drove into Scottsville today to hear Judge O'Rear speak, and but for the threatening aspect of the storm this morning, more would have been expected.

Judge O'Rear arrived about 10 o'clock this morning in an auto, riding twenty-five miles from Bowling Green in company with Thurman Dixon, Chairman of the Speakers' Bureau of the Campaign Committee and an Allertown boy.

The party was met a couple of miles from the county seat by a delegation of four autos and conducted to the courthouse square, where an immense throng was gathered to cheer the candidate on his arrival. The Scottsville band was playing when the procession moved around the square to the hotel. Scarcely had they entered when a heavy downpour of rain set in and lasted all day.

This necessitated the abandonment of plans for an outdoor speech and the meeting was held in the court room, and consequently a thousand were disappointed in failing to hear him, but hundreds of them called on him at the hotel.

Allertown is the home of Jack Oliver, Republican candidate for Secretary of State and it promises to give a majority of at least 600 for the ticket.

OUR WEEKLY GRUMBLE.

Did you ever notice that "talk" doesn't hurt a man much? Perfection isn't looked for in man, and when some one tries to injure a man by ranting about a few faults he has, the absent one who is probably attending to his own affairs, is charmed in the hearer's estimation, while the informant is lowered accordingly. If a man knocks along, doing fairly well people realize that while he has some faults, he has more virtues, and they are charitable enough to overlook these faults. But it is different with a girl or woman. No matter how good and pure a woman may be, let someone point out an infirmity about her and everyone is willing to pass it along, and there is always someone to believe it. That is, we can never be lived down. It may burn low but the gossip-loving are ready with new fuel. Did you ever think how demoralizing mean some goodly people are in this respect?

"Four doctors had given me up," writes Mrs. Laura Gains, of Avoca, La., "and my children and all my friends were looking for me to die, when my son insisted that I use Electric Bitters. I did so, and they have done me a world of good. I will always praise them." Electric Bitters is a priceless blessing to women troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, headache, neuritis, weakness, difficulty, constipation or kidney disorders. Use them and gain new health, strength and vigor. They're guaranteed to satisfy or money refunded. Only 50c at all druggists.

DO YOU KNOW

One-Seventh, 336,000, of the Population of Kentucky Is Disfranchised and Not Represented in State Legislature? STUDY THE MAP AND READ THE EXPLANATION BELOW

The above map shows two Senatorial districts in Kentucky, one being the smallest in point of population and Democratic, while the other shows the largest in point of population and Republican in politics. One State Senator is allowed the Democrats for 28,000 population, while one State Senator is allowed the Republicans in the mountains for 163,000 population, 1910 census. In other words it takes about five and six-sevenths Republicans to equal one Democrat, or 135,000 citizens are disfranchised in the Seventeenth Senatorial district alone. But this is only one illustration of the most outrageous gerrymandering that was ever practiced in any State in the Union. Take the Thirty-third Senatorial district, which is in the mountains and Republican and composed of ten counties, Clay, Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Leslie, Letcher, Harlan, Martin, Perry and Pike, with a population of 145,075. Its area is 3,382 square miles. Compare it with the Twenty-third Democratic district shown on the map.

Then turn your attention to the Representative districts. Here the gerrymandering was even more unprincipled. Hancock county is the Twenty-ninth Representative district with a population of only 3,612 and an area of 195 square miles. It has one Representative in the State Legislature. On the other hand, the Republican Ninety-third district in the mountains, composed of Bell, Harlan, Leslie and Perry counties, has a population of 59,244 and an area of 1,571 square miles, with one Representative.

Taking all the Senatorial and Representative districts, it was shown by a decision by the Court of Appeals that 336,000, or one-seventh, of the population of Kentucky is disfranchised. It was to right such a flagrant wrong as this that Judge O'Rear declared he would keep the Legislature in session for two years, if necessary. Remembering the blood of our forefathers from Lexington to Yorktown, would the enfranchisement of 336,000 citizens be expensive at such a cost? IS IT ANY WONDER, IN VIEW OF THESE FACTS, THAT BECKHAM, HALY & CO. HAVE ISSUED ORDERS TO JAMES, McCREARY, McDERMOTT, ET AL., TO BEAT THE TOM-TOM OF NATIONAL ISSUES AND AVOID RELIGIOUSLY ANY DISCUSSION OF STATE ISSUES?
